

First trilateral degree program "Energy Technology"

Institute of Energy and Transport Systems launches the first trilateral degree program "Energy Technology" in SPbPU together with Leibniz University of Hanover and Lappeenranta Technical University.

March 20th strategic meeting to discuss organizational and academic issues took place in St. Petersburg. Administrative and academic representatives of three partner universities reached agreement on application, enrollment and organization of the educational process procedures. Admission for the program is officially open.

